June 13, 2011

The Loudoun Free Clinic of Leesburg, Va., recently received a donation of $58,216 from Radiology Imaging Associates (RIA) at Lansdowne. A long-standing major financial contributor to the Free Clinic, RIA has annually presented the Clinic with a generous donation. The practice, which has been serving Loudoun County for more than 20 years, also provides diagnostic imaging services at no charge for the Free Clinic's patients from its Lansdowne facility and Countryside offices, RIA at Sterling. Additionally, RIA serves as a major supporter for the Free Clinic's annual fund-raising event held in November.

In statements accompanying the donation, RIA's President and Medical Director Joseph P. Finizio said, "Radiology Imaging Associates is committed to giving back to the community and helping organizations like the Loudoun Free Clinic that do so much to provide health care services for disadvantaged residents. We welcome Loudoun Free Clinic patients to our Lansdowne offices and newly renovated Sterling facilities, and are proud to be able to donate the diagnostic and preventive imaging services that are so important to improving their health status," he said.
